All problems should be reported to the front desk immediately by dialing “0” from your room telephone.

Before leaving your room, ensure all articles of clothing are stored in the closet and drawer space. Housekeepers are not authorized to handle personal items. If items are left on beds, the housekeepers cannot make the bed.

Go gentle on the furniture. Please leave furnishings where they are currently located. Guests will be responsible for any damages caused by movement or misuse.

Please do not use the linen to clean your shoes. Place your footwear on newspaper to avoid damage to the carpet.

Rooms are usually cleaned between the hours of 8:30 a.m. and 2:30.p.m. For shift workers: call 696-1892/1871 to arrange a convenient time for housekeeping to clean.

Be courteous to other occupants. Base quiet hours are from 10:00 p.m.-7:30 a.m. Please respect these hours.

All room charges are paid at check in for 15 days in advance and every 15 days thereafter.

Requests for extensions beyond 30 days must be in letter form, addressed to the Dyess Inn Lodging Office, and will be handled as a new reservation and on a space available basis. 24 hour notice required for all extension request. Check out time for all guests is 11 a.m. Late checkout charges will be applied for an extra night. If you have special circumstances, please contact the front desk the day prior to check out.

Service members are responsible for the actions of their dependents and visitors. Base policy states that children under age 10 must be in full sight of parents at all times.

Personal property should be locked in your luggage, safe or taken with you when you leave the room. Housekeepers are instructed not to pick up or move occupants' personal property at any time. Leaving items lying around the room results in your quarters not being properly cleaned.

In the beginning

World War II saw the blossoming of "tent camps" throughout the United States and Abilene was no exception. Camp Barkeley, a few miles south of Abilene, became an Army infantry training camp for thousands of recruits. Army inductees were trained for various duties while there.

Army Air Corps cadets learned to fly trainers and P-47 Thunderbolt fighters while stationed at Tye Army Air Field, a Camp Barkeley adjunct. When both installations were closed at the end of WW II, the deed to Tye Army Air Field was sold to Abilene for $1. Fifteen hundred acres of the former Army Air Field were used by the Texas National Guard as a training facility.

Following the outbreak of the Korean crisis, Abilenians called for a military installation. Armed with 1,500 acres and determination, civic leaders besieged Washington, DC and Pentagon officials with their request for a military installation. Proving beyond a shadow of a doubt they meant business, Abilenians raised $893,000 to purchase an additional 3,500 acres to provide a home for the military base they hoped would be in Abilene.

Several prominent men were instrumental in convincing authorities of the suitability of Abilene. Oliver Howard, the late W.P. Wright Sr. and others worked in the city to promote interest in the military facility. Together with Senator Lyndon B. Johnson and Congressman Omar Burleson, civil leaders persuaded military and civilian officials to put a military base in Abilene.

After letters and visits had been exchanged, the Department of Defense announced in July 1952 Congress had approved the $32,273,000 needed in appropriations for constructing a base in Abilene.

The local community was interested in providing for the Air Force an exemplary relationship between the community and an Air Force base. After initial ground-breaking ceremonies on Sept. 24, 1953, construction of the base progressed rapidly.

The red brick ranch-style architecture boasts a Texas influence throughout the base. A unique feature of the base is all buildings are permanent structures.

Known as Abilene Air Force Base, the Strategic Air Command base was dedicated by the city fathers at the end of Abilene's Diamond Jubilee April 15, 1956. On Dec. 6 that same year, the base was renamed Dyess AFB in honor of Lt. Col. William Edwin Dyess.

On Feb. 8, 1961, Dyess Air Force Base became home to the Tactical Air Command's 64th Troop Carrier Wing (Medium) flying the C-130 Hercules Abilene and the entire Big Country community celebrated President Reagan's announcement on Dec. 21, 1983, that Dyess AFB would receive the Air Force's first operational B-1B's. The arrival ceremony June 29, 1985, for the Star of Abilene included more than 50,000 people,
